

DP Democracy Studies Workshop “Citizenship and Democracy”

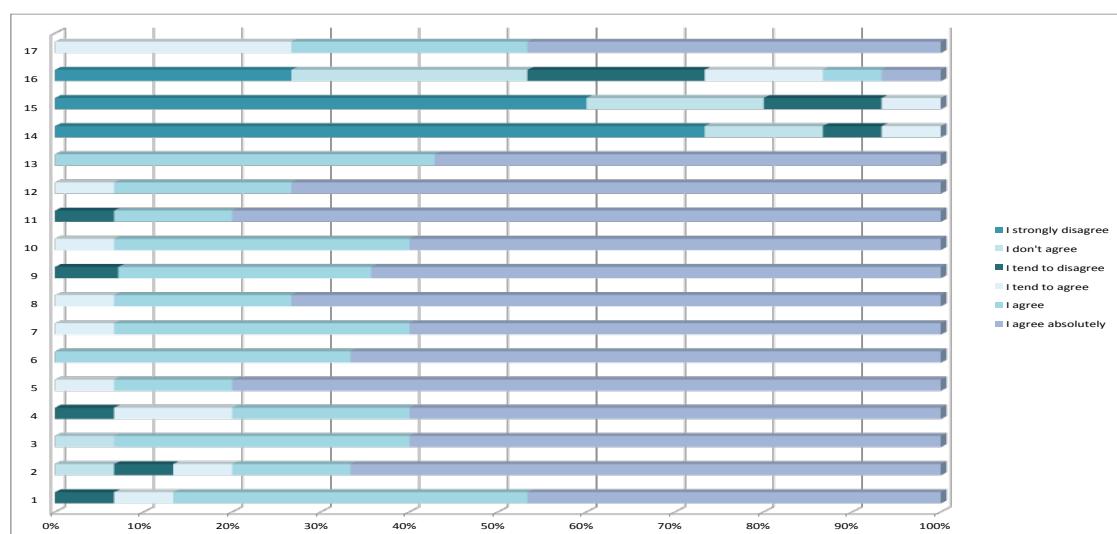

11-12 September 2017

Main Instructors: Alice El-Wakil, Lea Heyne, Lukas Peter

Summary of Workshop Evaluation by Participants (N=15)

Questionnaire

1. This workshop contributed to a more comprehensive understanding of researching citizenship and democracy.
2. This workshop covered a sufficient wide range of citizenship and democracy.
3. This workshop enabled me for (more) critical thinking in the field of citizenship and democracy.
4. My interest in the topic has grown because of this workshop.
5. This workshop was well organized in a practical sense.
6. This workshop was a good mixture of presentations, discussions and project planning.
7. The paper givers were well chosen.
8. The discussants were well prepared.
9. The planning sessions were fruitful.
10. The workshop made me think critically and independently.
11. The academic discussions were good and useful.
12. The speakers engaged sufficiently with questions and comments.
13. The workshop requirements were appropriate.
14. Too much time was spent on presentations.
15. Too much time was spent on discussions.
16. Too much time was spent on project planning.
17. I could extract important information from the workshop for my own academic activities.

Further results (based on open question responses)

All participants would recommend this workshop to their peers. Most of them emphasized the high quality of discussions, which took place in an open and inspiring atmosphere. Half of the participants even proposed to organize the workshop on an annual basis. According to some participants, the time management of the workshop could be improved and the value of the project planning sessions was questionable.